Please give more details about setting up of CUXLDEN. I am novice in .Net, and I don't know where to start (whether tools or components, which address, package for windows or linux, how many computers I need, what kind of file I need, etc.). Since CUXLDEN lite server is free, I can download and test it, before buying commercial version of CUXLDEN, if CUXLDEN is upto my needs. If I used it for personal use, I can keep updates on one computer. But, if I want to give it to my colleague, and he uses a different computer, we need to create another instance of CUXLDEN lite server on his computer, in order to distribute the files. I want to use it on Linux. But I don't know how to do it. 09-30-2008, 09:47 AM mircea_sburlea Re: CUXLDEN For Lite Server Released On Windows, this program is installed as a .NET application on our server, which is httpd (Apache) that is running under windows. The program is licensed as a statically compiled program, meaning it won't be able to update files on the fly. 08-20-2009, 02:55 AM csu Re: CUXLDEN For Lite Server Released Hi mircea_sburlea, There is a freeware version of b7e8fdf5c8

The information contained in this announcement may be changed without prior notice. AllLogix Corp. has developed a new innovative product for file distribution: CUXLDEN. This program enables users to download a great variety of files, including large files like game files, HD movies, original UCC movies, zipped backup files, etc., via a peer-to-peer network without incurring high cost. With the advent of "CUXLDEN For Lite Server", which was recently developed, users' great burden on high cost in very large file distribution is likely to be no longer a concern. This new innovative product makes it possible for very large files like online game files, HD movies, original UCC movies and zipped backup files that required high cost in distributing to be easily distributed to thousands of users with little cost incurred. "CUXLDEN For Lite Server", developed by AllLogix Corp., has a great capability of distribution with one single computer with Internet connection through peer-to-peer network. Compared to existing client-server based file distribution methods that require dozens of ftp/http servers and incur high cost, this product is economically and functionally far advanced than client-

server based. Especially "CUXLD
